

Give the Gift of a Life Changing Experience Today

Support a young woman to participate in a leadership development opportunity.

Young people across the world are experiencing an unexpected rate of change in every area of their lives. Resource scarcity, lack of access to basic education and healthcare, inequality, warfare and conflict threaten young lives everyday. Girls and young women are particularly vulnerable. They face social and economic barriers as well as everyday cultural and personal injustices that deny them their rights and restrict their opportunities.

The World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts' (WAGGGS) believes in empowering young women and preparing them for international leadership at local, national and global levels – encouraging them to develop to their fullest potential, become future leaders and influence issues that affect them most. WAGGGS strives to do this through:

- Providing young women with early experiences of acting in leadership roles;
- Providing young women with international experiences and the chance to work with people from a wide range of backgrounds;
- Advocating for young women and helping to ensure that government policies recognise and act on young women's rights.

Leadership development has been at the heart of Girl Guiding and Girl Scouting ever since the movement started.

Girl Guides and Girl Scouts have developed leadership and life skills through self development, challenge and adventure. Everyone who belongs to WAGGGS shares a set of values that include personal development and commitment to helping others.

WAGGGS aims to provide the best approach to leadership development. This is achieved through learning from our cumulative experience in the field over the past decade, and through developing strategic partnerships with other educational institutions.

"My role as a Guide has always been to be a leader, to change the world, somebody that gives everything so the next generations realize that all together we can achieve much more."

- Monica, Girl Guide from Peru

"Every time I attend a national or international event I feel born again. I am truly blossoming day after day thanks to Guiding... Participating in such a big movement worldwide has changed my life."

- Alia, Girl Guide from Kuwait
